

with his birth country of Kazakhstan and presumably has contacts from his multi-year residency in Turkey and Syria—which offer him many avenues of egress were he to attempt to flee if released on bond.

Moreover, the defendant now faces a significant prison term. If convicted of the charge in the Complaint, the defendant faces a maximum term of 20 years imprisonment and a Guidelines range of the same: 20 years. Moreover, when the government indicts this case, the government anticipates that it will seek additional charges to reflect the full scope of the defendant's offense conduct. The penalty for each such charge could run consecutively to any term of imprisonment imposed in connection with the charge set forth in the Complaint.
