DW: Al-salam 'alaykum [Peace be upon you.]

NR: Wa 'alaykum al-salam [Peace be upon you.]

DW: Sorry I missed your call. I'm a...uh... I was knocked out. [Mumbles] Cause I, 'cause you know, I stay up- I sleep from- I usually...

NR: --No problem.

DW: -- Yeah, I usually take a nap from like around like- 'asr-maghrib [afternoon-sunset] time and then I wake up or I stay up from—from—from after 'asr-maghrib [afternoon-sunset] all the way till fajr [dawn], and then I sleep after it, until [UI] time, so I was knocked out. [Laughs]

DW: --A lot of the- a lot of the works, uhm...dealing with that, that special topic, a lot of the works dealing with that special topic, uhm...they're not translated, and I say to myself I have to wonder what would make uh... these-these students, these students who- who have uhm...who have, who have graduated from uh the college in the lughah al-'arabiyyah [Arabic Language], the people who have graduated from that college a-at the University of Medina what would prevent them from translating these classical works on that special topic? It's very scary when you think about that. It's a whole- it's a whole system of, of a...modernization, the way they, they specifically refuse to translate works of – of the classical 'ulama' [scholars], on this special topic, specifically because they don't want people to be educated on it... if you would. It's very, very sickening when you think about it.

NR: [OV] Yeah, yeah.

DW: Did you realize that? Like every book you see, that... like... the r-real classical works, even down to like uh...the uh...

NR: [OV] The only-

DW: [OV] Yeah, go ahead.

NR: --The only brothers that I know that would teach, that would probably teach that, would be from uh... Europe.

[07:42 to 9:09]

DW: It's-it's- it's uh, it's uh- it's a flat, it's a flat uh... situation. [IA] [yawning] this dude uh...dude asked me maybe six months ago about what the job- what job I was uh, what job, what type of environment I would be in-- cause there is a lot of like- security jobs with most of them, like bouncers at clubs, and stuff of that nature. I don't want any part of that environment. I had to work at the [UI] for two years and be with all that ratchet stuff, I didn't- I don't wanna be around that environment, but in the same token, if—if—if because of-- because of the circumstances, there is no- if there is no other work, so long as the work- the work isn't- isn't outright haram [forbidden] then- then uhm...then I'm not in a position that [IA] because what [IA] entertain is because that wealth is not used merely for myself, rather without you know going into details, we know what-what that would be uh...what that would be used toward. Uhm...and uh...and oh man...Man, oh man!

[19:45 to 20:45]

DW: . . . On the bigger scale, it's gonna- it's gonna be some heavy stuff, uh... uh... after this knowledge is obtained, insha' Allah [God willing.]

NR: [OV] Yeah.

DW: [OV] Be some big stuff.

NR: --Insha' Allah [God willing.] Like I said, I've been wanting to...uh... meet up with you to uh ... discuss some important aspects I think you might uh ... you might enjoy. So ...

DW: Oh!!! That sounds so wonderful. You know I'm disappointed, because my uh...my old—my older uncle—he had left and [yawning] I was gonna use his car while he was- uh...one second. Can I—can I give you a call right back, that's my mom on the other line.

NR: Yeah.

DW: Okay, insha' Allah [God willing.]
